Dear Yucca District Resident,

At this week's Council Workshop, (04-20-10) the Intergovernmental Programs Department provided council with a state legislative update. During the presentation, we discussed SB 1109 (Annexation, city or town)

This bill could help Glendale halt construction of a tribal casino by the Tohono O'odham Nation near our sports and entertainment district. Click here to read the city of Glendale's position on the proposed Indian Reservation.

I would like to ask residents to contact Senate President Bob Burns, who has the authority to let bills move to the floor for a vote, and respectfully encourage him to allow the bill to be voted on by the full Senate.

Thank you,
Councilmember Joyce Clark

Glendale Volunteers. This week was National Volunteer Week and the city of Glendale recognized the multi-million dollar economic value volunteers bring to the community. Glendale has more than 1,400 volunteers city-wide who provide service to the city in the amount of more than $2.5 million. That dollar figure is equal to the amount it would cost if the city had to pay for those services. For the past 15 years, volunteers have assisted nearly every city department.

The services provided by city volunteers include office support, data entry, recycling assistants, transit survey aides, code compliance inspectors, Glendale Greeters, being a mascot for the water conservation office, library duties, maintenance of the Xeriscape Garden, Sahuaro Ranch historic guides, animal care, Police Explorers, Police Pipers, Fire Cadets and the Fire Crisis Response Team.

In addition to Glendale's 1,400 volunteers who support 24 departments, there are approximately 2,000 other volunteers who throughout the year assist with community projects such as the annual Rock N' Roll Paint-A-Thon, National Family Volunteer Day, Serve Day and Earth Day. Plus, an additional 132 citizens volunteer their time and talents to Glendale's 20 boards and commissions. Click here for information about the city's volunteer programs.

Parks and Recreation Priorities Survey. The city of Glendale is conducting a citizen survey as part of the Parks and Recreation Department Master Plan update to help establish priorities for current and future parks and recreation services, programs and facilities offered within the community.

The citizen survey will be mailed to a limited number of randomly selected households. It will take just a few minutes to fill out, and the time invested will aid the city in making decisions that will enrich the future of Glendale's community and positively affect the lives of its residents.

If you receive the survey in the mail, please be sure to fill it out and return it in the enclosed postage-paid envelope. The survey is a tool that will benefit all city of Glendale residents. Please take the opportunity to let your voice be heard.

The survey is being administered by Leisure Vision/ETC Institute, an independent firm. They will compile the data and present the results to the city of Glendale. All responses will remain confidential.

If you have questions about the survey, please contact the Glendale Parks and Recreation Department at (623) 930-2828.

Public Hearing for Updated Glendale Zoning Ordinance. The Glendale Planning Commission is holding a public hearing for the updated zoning ordinance on Thursday, May 6, at 7 p.m. in the council chambers, 5850 W. Glendale Ave.

The Planning Department has updated the zoning ordinance to be more flexible and user-friendly. The language has been standardized and designed to be easier to understand. Most of the changes occurred in the commercial development area. Applicants also will see an easier process while experiencing excellent customer service.

The ordinance defines specific uses allowed in each zoning district and property restrictions. In addition, guidelines such as height of buildings and structures, required building setbacks, density, coverage and lot sizes are included in the zoning ordinance. Zoning districts include residential, commercial, industrial, and agricultural uses and the boundaries are designated on the zoning map available online, www.glendaleaz.com/planning.

The public is encouraged to provide comments now through the public hearing. Email comments can be sent to mpickering@glendaleaz.com. For more information, call (623) 930-2590 or visit www.glendaleaz.com/planning.
